Dear Steve

RE: ERGONOMIC ASSESMENT

Being a medium sized architectural firm, our employees spend the majority of their day working at their desk and on their computer.

While we had installed height adjustable desks and ergonomic chairs with health and comfort in mind, we still had employees with neck, back and wrist problems. Their workstations may have been ideal, but our employees had never been advised how to setup their workstation properly.

Steve Felsher from Physio4All came out and assessed all our employees. There wasn't one employee that got his tick of approval, but thankfully we now have employees sitting ergonomically and working more efficiently. Even the....well, the stubborn employees who liked how their desks were setup, tried out Steve's new setup for a week and haven't changed back.

Steve was very efficient and spoke to each employee to see what their concerns were. He did a thorough check of not only the person, but how the person worked and how they needed their workstation setup.

Nettleton Tribe would recommend Physio4 All and Steve Felsher to any company - it really was a simple task to organise, but one that every company should do in this OH&S savvy world.

Yours faithfully,
